FORWARD

This compilation lists the studies directed by the 1981 General Assembly to be undertaken by special commissions, committees, and by specific State agencies. The format is designed to enable the reader to obtain, at a glance, all of the essential information, (e.g., the subject matter of the study, the duties, the reporting date, the commission and committee memberships, and the contact persons for the study) contained in the legislation authorizing the particular study.

INTRODUCTION

The 1981 General Assembly directed that a large number of studies be undertaken on varied subjects. This compilation lists the membership of the commissions, committees, or State agencies appointed to conduct the various studies. It cites the legislation directing the study, provides a brief synopsis of the duties outlined in the legislation, and gives the reporting date. It was prepared as a reference tool for legislators interested in: (1) learning of the existence of interim studies, and (2) identifying and contacting those individuals who are involved in the investigation of the matters outlined in the legislation directing the particular study. Generally, the committees and commissions listed here have been established on a temporary basis and will cease to exist upon the filing of a final report. In several instances, studies that were initiated during a prior session of the General Assembly were extended during the 1981 Session; some existing committees and commissions were given additional matters to consider.

Studies being conducted under the Legislative Research Commission are not included here. A publication entitled "Legislative Commission: 1981-83 Studies and Activities" was prepared by the Legislative Research Commission for presentation to the 1983 General Assembly. That publication is available in the Legislative Library and it contains, among other things, membership lists and staff contacts for committees of the Legislative Research Commission. That publication together with this compilation of interim studies should enable a legislator to determine what interim study activity has occurred on subjects of interest to him or her.
